

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI

DATE: April 30, 1956

FROM: [REDACTED], LOS ANGELES

SUBJECT: HANNAH ARENDT
Wa. Hannah Arendt Blucher
INTERNAL SECURITY - R

On April 5, 1956, [REDACTED] Fresno, California, advised SA [REDACTED] that his daughter, [REDACTED] was presently studying philosophy under Professor PAUL RICOEUR at Strasbourg, France. Mr. [REDACTED] advised he felt that HANNAH ARENDT was very dangerous to the best interests of this country in view of the fact she is a professor who travels around the United States instructing at numerous colleges as a visiting professor. He stated his daughter changed her thinking completely after taking courses from HANNAH ARENDT at the University of California at Berkeley, California, in 1955, and feels that it was her influence which had influenced his daughter to go to Europe to study under Professor PAUL RICOEUR. Mr. [REDACTED] advised that from all the information he had been able to gather, he could not say that HANNAH ARENDT was a Communist, but stated she was advocating a totalitarian philosophy in her political courses.

Mr. [REDACTED] furnished the following information concerning HANNAH ARENDT, which he obtained from sources in Berkeley, California. HANNAH ARENDT was born in 1906, educated in Konigsberg, Germany, and majored in philosophy. She also studied theology and Greek. She received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Heidelberg, Germany, in the year 1928. Her first book "The Concept of Love in Augustine" appeared in 1929 at the publishing house of Springer in Berlin. In 1930, she began to write a biography of RAHEL VARNHAGEN von ENSE under the auspices of the Notgemeinschaft der deutschen Wissenschaft which could never appear since the author had to leave Germany in 1933 as she is a Jewess. From 1933 until 1940, she lived in Paris where she was the leader of the Youth Aliyah and also studied European history. She immigrated from Southern France to the United States in 1941. She became a regular sponsor of the "Partisan Review", "Commentary", "Review of Politics" and "Kenyon Review".

From 1946 to 1948, she was the chief editor of the "Big Kafka" edition of the Schocken Publishing Company. In 1949, the publishing company of Lambert Schneider in Heidelberg published a volume of her essays. In 1951, this book "The Origins of Totalitarianism," now published in Germany appeared in America. In 1952, she received a Guggenheim Fellowship for her works in the field of political theory and science. She delivered the results of this study to the public in the autumn of 1953 in a series of lectures under the auspices of the "Christian Gauss Lecturers" at Princeton University. In the same year, she gave a second series of lectures at Notre Dame University. In May, 1954, she received a prize of the American Academy for Arts and Letters for her literary achievements. In the spring of 1955, she was a guest professor of Political Science at the University of California at Berkeley, California. Her maiden name is stated to be COHEN and she married a man named ARENDT whom she divorced and later married a man named BLUCHER who is a professor of philosophy at Bard College on the Upper Hudson. It was described as a progressive type of institution originally connected with the Columbia University, according to WOODWARD. She is still married to Professor BLUCHER and is now residing at 140 Morningside Drive in New York.

Mr. [] stated that the book "Who's Who in World Jewry" has the following data concerning HANNAH ARENDT. She was a research fellow at the Kaiser-Leopoldische Museum in 1931 to 1932; general secretary of the French Branch of the German Youth Movement in 1935 to 1938; regional director of Jewish Cultural Reconstruction Committee (US) in 1944 to 1946; executive secretary of the same committee in 1949 to 1952; later was on the Board of Directors. At the present time, she is best described as a writer and visiting professor.
